Youth Migration Finds New Home in Hospitality of Denmark

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

"Denmark really isn't all that free," complained the topless young tourist puffing on the exotically pungent pipe. "They don't let you sing on the beach or play transistor radios or strum guitars or anything."

Jette Holm, an 18-year-old Danish nurse spending a day at the beach with a young traveler from Israel, couldn't understand why "this year all of a sudden Copenhagen is the in-place for the hippies. Amsterdam is far more liberal, and Elat is much more adventurous."

At the Green Camp, a tent camp city set up by the hospitable Danes to handle youthful nomads from all over the globe, Ali Sahafi of New York's Greenwich Village sat at a picnic table among German, Japanese and French pilgrims eating the camp's unvarying evening meal of brown rice and vegetables. The dish set him back 26 cents out of a total summer budget of $400.

"It's starting to happen here; a lot of beautiful people are grooving this way," enthused Ali, who came to Europe via Icelandic Airlines—round trip fare $157—and found Copenhagen's permissive outlook on pot, sex and long hair even more to his liking than Amsterdam's equally tolerant but more crowded scene. "The Dutch police are beautiful," conceded Ali, "but there are too many hard drug freaks around. The kids are coming down with all kinds of diseases and reduced to stealing off each other. Finland was out of sight; great for hitchhikers, Germany, too, lots of cars, but a dude needed a chick to get picked up."

Dudes and chicks, as the sexes are identified in the great youth pilgrimage sweeping across Europe, sleep in the same tents, often in the same sleeping bags at the Green Camp, as they do in the other municipal "sleep-ins." Only the church camps and the Youth Hostels—still a necessary bargain at 65 cents a night—hold the line on separate quarters.

"We could set up a separate tent for girls, but no one has ever asked," remarked camp overseer Klaas Muizelaar, who seemed stunned by the concept. "You know, many girls don't even carry sleeping bags."

No one knows for sure, as yet, how many "youth tourists," as the Dutch benignly term them, or "Les Ippies," as the French call them, have converged on the Continent from places as far flung as Vancouver and Tokyo, or where they are all heading, or why. Estimates range from three million—British Tourist Authority—to five million—American Express Co.—to seven million—Aloha, underground Dutch magazine—but regardless of numbers, their hand-to-mouth migratory habits and instinct to nest in the most public of places, like the parks of London,

Blue Jeaned Vagabonds

The American Express office anywhere is the market place of youth on the move in Europe. Here, it's in Amsterdam, and a line of young wanderers sits on the sidewalk outside, to read or wait for mail and money from home, to look for friends or read the notices about what is doing or moving or up for sale. For its part, the establishment is not only governed by benign tolerance in its dealings with hippies. It realizes that today's barefoot vagabond could be tomorrow's big spender. Already many of the young have credit cards and book first class air travel. (AP) don, under the bridges of Paris, on the beaches of Spain, were not quite what the tourist planners had in mind when they envisioned the era of the jumbo jet.

In blue jeans and happy beads, packs on their back and sandals on their feet, the young vagabonds were lured to Western Europe by the siren song of the transatlantic air price war begun by Sabena—round trip $200—by the peer culture call of dropping out into the alternative society, if only for a summer, and by the shortage of temporary jobs everywhere.

Unlike the lemmings, the blue-jeaned vagabonds are driven by no mystic drives. They swarm, like locusts, wherever the resistance is least, or flock, like pigeons, on the grass. Alas, their kind of grass.

Early in June, a youth census taker, setting up a rucksack observatory in London's Trafalgar Square, Madrid's Plaza Santa Ana, Amsterdam's Dam Square or any other favored staging area, would definitely have concluded this year's migration was headed eastward. Bare feet were beating a path to Istanbul, Afghanistan, Nepal and Laos, the fabled lotus lands of sweet smoking forgetfulness.

"Cholera in India and Pakistan busted that gig," sighed Guy Poppin of Philadelphia (via Pan Am's $220 student fare).

By mid-July the main flyway seemed to be southwest from the Low Countries to sunny, economical Spain, particularly the islands of Iboza and Formentera, then by thumb and ferry to Tangier and Morocco, where the grass was greener.

Then a coup attempt erupted in machinegun fire in Morocco, and the Spanish police turned on the hippie colony in Iboza with clubs and handcuffs. The pack fled north, some east.

Now the campsites west of Saint-Tropez are in vogue again, if crowded, and Norway is beckoning holders of the $125 student Eurail pass, which allows two months of unrestricted riding and sleeping on second-class trains.

But Amsterdam remains the mecca, because the five way-out members of the Kabouter-elves—party on the 45-man city council have set a tolerant tone toward the alternative society's outlook on smoking, sex and dress.

In the mornings, hippies by the hundreds—some days, by the thousands—rise from their sleeping bags in Vondel Park.

The sun already is high in the sky, and the work-a-day world has been at it for hours, but the silent bundles slowly come to life. A girl is washing her feet in the lake. A boy is picking tiny mites from his long flowing hair. There is a long line outside the toilet wagon, provided by the good burghers of Amsterdam, and from the opposite bank issue the strains of Oriental music on a high-pitched pipe.

"Time to be up and grooving," Art Dwyerman of Miami tells the Swedish girl who shared his sleeping bag last night. "Ja," she agrees, and they head downtown to De Bijenkorf—"The Beehive"—the gigantic department store where the rest rooms have gleaming porcelain sinks and marvelous hot water.

"For shaving," explains Gary Lewis of Seattle, "the trick is to lather up fast and disappear into the cabinet before the attendant catches you."

Brunch is a slab of gouda cheese with black bread on the steps of the war memorial, that pristine shaft rising from Dam Square in the shadow of the Grand Hotel Krasnapolsky. Dropouts from conventional society have a strange passion for hunkering down in the lap of luxury.

In Copenhagen they squat all day in the doorway of the expensive porcelain shops along the Stroeg, the walking street. In Paris they exchange serene gazes with the gargoyles of Notre Dame from the sidewalk tables of Le Petit Bar, on the Left Bank. In Nice, they camp out in front of the Casino de la Mediterranee on the Promenades des Anglais, sometimes barging past the doorman to use the toilet with the cool audacity of a Nicholas Zoranos covering a million-franc bet.

On hot days in Amsterdam's Dam Square, the youth tourists follow the afternoon shadows around the monument. To the tourist cameras, the effect is that of a huge sprawling sundial whipped up by Andy Warhol with swatches of faded bluejeans and patch quilt granny gowns. Sometimes tourists from the conventional society descend from the sightseeing buses and sit among them to have their pictures taken.

Now off limits after dark, Dam Square is the acropolis of the hippie scene, the place where the eternal verities are discussed, where one gets one's "head cleaned up" and meets the goddesses from other climes, over the miles, over the language barrier.

Someone in the square is sure to have a transistor radio to listen in to the latest hashish and pot prices broadcast several times daily by a Socialist party station. And someone is sure to have the latest copy of Aloha, the Dutch underground magazine which lists the hashish and marijuana prices the way the Wall Street Journal runs stock listings: "Moroccan hash, 3.25 guilders per gram, up one point; Lebanese red, 3.45 guilders, down a point; Afghan select, 3.55, up .61.

If Dam Square or any available splashing fountain is their cultural center, the American Express office, anywhere, is their market place. Here one waits for mail and money from home, looks for friends on the move, or reads the placards outside to find out what is doing or moving or up for sale.

"Two female riders wanted to Paris..."

"Lord, won't you buy my Ford Transit van, complete with water jugs, gas can and siphon line for ripping (stealing)..."

His observation points out an underlying fact about the youth movement everywhere in Europe: not everything frayed, faded or fringed is down-and-out hippie. Lots of young people, school teachers especially, drop in and out of the hippie society, drifting from first-class hotel to sleeping bag in the park as their whim and budget dictate. It's an inexpensive, exciting way to see the Old World, and it gives you status among your peers for having sampled the new.

Evenings in Amsterdam are soul-soothing with similar municipal benefices. There is the Paradiso, a former church garishly painted red, white and blue, with its rock concerts, folk festivals, macrobiotic cafe and experiments in yoga and living theater. There is the Milkweg—the Milkyway—with its tea-house for organic foods and soul-rock room with outlets to plug in your own electronic instruments and speakers.

Copenhagen is less organized, but by some unwritten youth law, Tuesday and Saturday are set aside for all-night parties to watch the midnight sun come up—about 3 a.m. Or for six cents, one can groove all evening amid the twinkling lights of the Tivoli, the amusement park, watching the quality go by, catching the free acts in the arena, listening to the free band concerts.

In Paris, the thing to do is sit along the Seine and watch the Mouche boats go by serving candlelight supper amid flowers in cut-glass vases. In Saint-Tropez you sit at dusk on the stanchions in the yacht basin; in Spain you wait for the fishing fleets to return.

As Barry Heller of Lake Placid, N.Y., explained when asked what the hippies did all day: "The thing to do is do your thing, wherever you are."

Serene as Buddhist bronzes, impoverished as Hindu holy men, the young seers can sit for hours in a public place meditating, contemplating, cogitating under conditions that would make a medieval monk fidgety.

Traffic blares and bleats. Police pry. Tourists giggle and point their cameras. Nothing, but nothing shakes the cool of the cool of the footloose philosophers hunkered down on their knapsacks in the cooling spray of a splashing fountain.

What in the world do they talk about all day?

"Mostly the world and the shape it's got itself into," confided Chicagoan Troy Unger with a look made of all sweet accord and a few thousand freckles.

"And the stuff we smoke, and the trips we took, and the freaks we met," added Mike Brady of Hammondsport, N.Y. As if to illustrate the point, he lit up a "tusk," a stubby cigar hand rolled from what he insisted was "the finest Turkish hash 20 francs can buy."

Phil Druckman, a pharmacy student from Aurora, Ill., prescribed a dram of skepticism. "Some dudes exaggerate a lot about the freakouts and tripping on all kinds of wild stuff in Nepal or Afghanistan, but it's mainly to impress the chicks. Pot's a popular subject, though, no doubt about that."

***

In Amsterdam's Dam Square, the bluejeaned pilgrims from all over the world sit around hour after hour like old Dutch spice traders discussing the prices and potency of Lebanese Red, Panama Best, Mexican Magic and similar heady nostrums.

"Smack you sniffed and how the dealers tried to push birdseed on you instead of the real stuff, that's what we talk about," agreed Laurie Janis, a baby-faced blonde from Manchester, England.

"Never the war in Vietnam," insisted Frank Vano, a Vietnam veteran from Astoria, L.I., who wore a large peace emblem on his camouflage fatigue jacket. "Most kids here are apolitical. They don't want to argue war. When you're smoking, you just want to sit around and be peaceful and let the world go by."

Despite, or perhaps because of, the self-proclaimed permissive outlook of the new life style, sex was seldom a subject of protracted conversation and rarely a cause for argument.

"When your chick decides to split or finds a new dude," explained Teddy Muholland of Athens, Ga., "You just get your head together (i.e. muster your savoir-faire) and quietly cut out. Or else you go see the dealer-man and get zotz (wiped out on something narcotic or hallucinogenic)."

Still, most of the Americans in certified hippie gear encountered on the move through Europe seemed to be only passerby in the streets of counter-culture, refugees from the groves of academe on a summer idyll that will fast fade away.

"Look for the chicks you met last year and they're all working in an office some place or married to a cop," sighed Gary Marx of Detroit, now on his third summer ramble across the Continent by second-class train.

"We're not running away from anything," insisted Ali Sahafi. "We're going toward something, toward a spirit of international language and communication that may bring about a community of peace everywhere."

Dropping her pack in a tent at the Green Camp in Copenhagen, Karen Kaye, 18, from Miami, said she wasn't "dropping out of anything, really. I just hope society can get to be where it should be: a little more liberal, a little more loving."

Unless pushed, the police on patrol in the hippie meccas of Europe treat the freaks in the park or on the beach with studied indifference.

In Nice, the gendarmes know there is no future in picking up a hippie. He probably can't pay his fine and the judge will let him go, anyhow, rather than clutter up the local bastille. With Gallic ingenuity, the Nice police persuade the public works people to run a bulldozer along the beach a couple of days a week at dawn.

Similarly, after the bobbies had just about given up, Westminster City Council ended the hippie encampment in Piccadilly Circus by flushing out the square several times a week with a water cannon. "Like other feline species, these cats don't take to water," said a cabbie joyously taking in the scene.

The good burghers of Amsterdam, proud of their wartime reputation for housing the homeless and the hunted, planted flowers rather than busting heads in Dam Square to keep the hippies from bunking down by the thousands.

The city that sheltered Anne Frank and looked the other way while outlawed Catholics built their attic churches, spent $1 million this year on hippie hangouts, rock clubs, free concerts, sleep-ins, toilet wagons and open air theatrics in anticipation of the tourist invasion.

Copenhagen similarly pampers its itinerant paupers with cheap beds and meals, orchestra recitals, nudie beaches and a multilingual newspaper telling where it's all happening. All this, and free ferry tickets to Malmö, Sweden, if that happens to be the scene.

The Low Countries, in general, have a widely touted tolerance of hippie smoking habits, while devoting most of their police and Customs efforts to halting hard drugs and ferreting out the dealers and pushers. Amsterdam's specially trained 32-man Dam squad, known affectionately among the kids as "the Dam busters," moves gently among the thousands of world travellers who sun themselves in the square day after day.

"They're outta sight," came the ultimate counterculture accolade from Rod Hillman, who claims to have dropped out of Denver by way of Cornell University. "Two Moroccan chicks sold us some opium, then stole it back later. The Dutch fuzz lifted their passports."

"People sometimes criticize them for being dirty or for polluting the parks and squares, but tourists who come by car take a lot more from the ecology of the city," insists Amsterdam city councilman Hans Lammers, a staunch defender of hippiedom against bourgeois attacks. Despite the milk bottles missing from the doorsteps and the clothing disappearing from the clothesline, Amsterdam has grown to accept the hippie hordes as part of the tourist scene.

More than benign tolerance is behind the official pose in Northern Europe. Belgium, Denmark and Holland are confidently dealing in "youth futures." Like the American Express Co., they have come to realize that today's barefoot vagabond could be tomorrow's big spender on the deluxe vacation.

"You'd be surprised how many already have credit cards and come in here to book first-class air travel," said Nils Thorbjornsen, manager of the American Express in Copenhagen, who every morning has to pick his way to the office through a sidewalk-sea of hirsute humanity. The British Tourist Authority has concluded that for all their pretences at penury, youth tourists account for nearly a quarter of Britain's annual $450 million tourist bonanza.

Matador Has Wit

To Match His Cape

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Matador Adrian Romero is as quick with his wit as he is with his cape.

The 20-year-old bullfighter from Mexico City, who earned two ears and two laps around the arena in Tijuana, Mexico, Sunday, was asked at a luncheon Monday whether he is ever afraid in the ring.

"The state of California is small compared to the size of my fear," Romero joked. "I'm the biggest chicken I know."

If that's the case, what does he like about it? With a smile he replied:

"The things I like best about bullfighting are the big money and the small bulls. The smaller the bulls, the better I like it."

Basic Hippie Living

A couple of twentieth century nomads sign in at Green Camp — a supervised tent city set up by Copenhagen's hospitable citizens to handle young travelers from all over the globe. Cheap sleeping accommodation and meals are available. Other capitals are less organized and millions of the young sleep in parks and squares, wash in fountains and beg for food. And in Spain, Yugoslavia, Turkey and the Balkans, officialdom is not amused at the hippie scene and is more inclined to take action against it. (AP)

An Interview with the Ding-A-Lings

Girls Talk of Tours to Vietnam

Who's looking after whom

"A trip you'll remember all your life," was the way one of the Ding-A-Ling sisters described her trip to Vietnam in an interview Tuesday. The Ding-A-Lings are in Sedalia performing at the Missouri State Fair.

The interview with the four lovely young ladies Tuesday was interesting as the girls described their reactions to their Vietnam tours. Michelle Della Fave, a litesome blonde, will be making her fourth trip to entertain troops this year.

"I really enjoy the trips," she said, "political opinions don't matter when you're there with the men who are facing the war daily." "As Martha Raye put it, 'you can't talk about it until you've been there' and I've seen some heart-rending scenes."

The other members of the group quickly chimed in with their comments on the trip and all emphasized how much they are looking forward to their upcoming trip in December.

The four girls, Michelle, Tara, Taffy and Lynn, come from varied backgrounds, but all share their interest and enthusiasm for their career as Ding-A-Lings.

Michelle is a second generation "show biz" girl. Her father, a drummer, and her mother a retired dancer. She was born and raised in New Jersey and began her career as one of the Copa Girls at the Copacabana night club.

Tara Leigh is from President Nixon's home of Whittier, Calif., and although she hasn't met the President, she says she has met many of the aides and other presidential staff members in Whittier. Tara began dancing when she was 5, took voice training at 13 and began working professionally at 17. She was an original member of the Goldiggers.

Taffy Jones is a brown-haired, brown-eyed beauty who made her professional debut at age 11 in San Francisco. She Latham. The delightful and talented girls will be appearing again Wednesday and Thursday evenings at the grandstand show of the Missouri State Fair. Other stars for the evening's performances will be Phyllis Diller, John Davidson and Dionne Warwick. (Democrat-Capital Photo) was a drama major at West Valley College in San Jose and toured with the Doodletown Pipers.

A native of Iowa City, Ia., Lynn Latham has had training as a singer and dancer and attended California State College. She has toured with the Sammy Davis Jr. Company and appeared at Lake Tahoe.

During the interview the girls were asked about their group name and as one might expect it came from their agent-producer Greg Garrison who thought the young, flighty girls of the Goldiggers were "ding-a-lings" and when the inner group, formerly of Goldiggers, was formed he used the name.

The girls said they didn't mind the constant traveling and running from place to place for performances because "once you're on stage, it's all worth it." They all said they enjoyed working for any audience, but special delight was working for servicemen.

Asked about some embarrassing moments while performing, the girls laughed and said many things have happened to them with microphones falling into the orchestra pit and being announced and running out to sing their first song only to find the orchestra also coming in.

Their outside interests vary, but the girls said their favorite past-time was resting up after the hectic schedules they follow. Last week they appeared on the Johnny Carson show, taped a Dean Martin show, flew into St. Louis Monday, drove to Fort Wood for a show and then to Sedalia. Following their Thursday evening performance, the girls will return to Burbank for a Friday taping of another Dean Martin show.

Even with their hectic schedule, the girls remain cheerful and friendly, because their doing what they want most, to perform.

Polly's Pointers

Too Much Packing Is Her Pet Peeve

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I hope my Pet Peeve is constructive criticism. We read that the cost of living has gone up so much and are certainly conscious of this each time we go to the grocery or shopping. We also hear about pollution on every side but still manufacturers keep coming up with more elaborate packaging of the products we are using. I am not advocating that we return to the old cracker barrel where we are told the cat often slept, but is so much wrapping necessary? There are wrappings inside of wrappings, not only on some food items but on other commodities, such as lingerie, stationery, etc. When buying only a loaf of bread which is sealed in a waxed bag, is it necessary for the grocer to then place this in a brown bag? I feel our expenses might be lessened with less wrapping, and this would also help with the pollution problem. Thanks for allowing me to sound off. — MRS. H. G.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I hope someone has suggestions for uses for worn-out hair rollers. I cannot use them after the brushes begin to wear out but hate to throw them away. They are perfectly good otherwise. — D.G.W.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for those who have loved ones in nursing homes. I work in one and have found that one way folks could add to a patient's comfort as well as help the employees is to split dresses and gowns down the back, bind with bias tape and add snaps or ties. They are much easier to put on and easier for the patient, too, so the little time and effort is well worth anybody's time. I would certainly do this for any loved one I had in a nursing home. — MRS. H.D.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the design of waste containers. How I would like to have separate sections for sorting metal, glass and the usual waste materials. Perhaps this could be three rectangles held in a metal frame similar to the one used to wheel out garbage cans and it would also keep them off the ground. Also, I would like to see knee patches included with children's ski pants so those inevitable patches would not stick out so conspicuously. — REGINA

Ginger Snaps

By Ginger Moore

Well, the Missouri State Fair is in progress for the 69th time and with new attendance records being set every day, it's obvious more people than ever are coming into Sedalia for the fair.

Hopefully, these visitors will want to return to the friendly "fair" city.

This year's fair offers shows of interest to all ages and all interests. From puppet shows which delight young and old to the sod house which brings recollections of "the good old days" for the old and a new insight into the past for the young.

Hundreds of Sedalians have worked long and hard for this week and now hopefully are enjoying the fruits of their labor.

I hope Sedalians will set aside a day to tour the fair themselves because there are many new things to see and do.

Along with fair visitors, Sedalia welcomes back to town the men in blue. Although we have five members of the Missouri Highway Patrol stationed in town, it's always nice to see the many patrol cars coming in to town. For many Missourians the fair week may be their only contact with a patrolman, so stop by the Highway Patrol office or talk with "Otto" the patrol's talking car and get acquainted.

These friendly men in blue are happy to meet the people they serve and are always happy to answer questions about their work.

Welcome to Sedalia, fellas!

Children can come up with many excuses to go to the fair, but my four-year-old came up with a new one recently. "Mommy," he said, "I have to go to the fair today, Otto the talking car wants to see me."

Woman Is Mother To 26 Kids

By EDGAR MILLER

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Miss Edna Deakins, 57, came to Brazil 14 years ago with less than $100, an abiding love for children and "deep faith in the Lord."

A missionary, she wanted to work with children and she was told Brazil was a good place to do it.

Today, she is "mother" to 26 children ranging in age from a few weeks to 18 years. They are white, black and oriental.

When they came to Miss Deakins they were dirty, diseased, half-starved and often near death. Today, they are bright-eyed, clean, healthy and vigorous.

"We don't call this an orphanage," says Miss Deakins, "We call it home."

Her home has no permanent, organized support from any group or organization. She runs it single-handedly, finding financial backing and support where she can. And Miss Deakins does not put her children up for adoption. "When I take them I keep them as my children," she explains.

American Protestant church groups and the Dutch Reformed Church contribute to her effort on a fairly regular basis. She also receives donations from friends and well-wishers in the United States.

A native of Southern California, Miss Deakins gave up her secretarial job there in the early 1950s to go to Europe to work as a Protestant missionary.

In Catholic Portugal she was barred from working among children because of her religion, she says. She went to England but again worked as a secretary. After five years, she came to Brazil.

Soon after her arrival in Sao Paulo she heard of a 6-month old baby who needed a home. She took him in and that was the beginning. The boy, Sergio, now nearly 15, still is living with her.

Without a steady income to raise the children, Miss Deakins is faced with constant problems.

How has she managed? "We've had one miracle after another," she says.

She had a box of cake mix. The family has recently moved into a large roomy house donated by the Dutch church.

Today, Miss Deakins only accepts those children who are truly "hardship" cases, children who are abandoned at birth or whose parents are dead and there is no place for them to go.

Testimony Continues In Henderson's Trial

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — Witnesses at the court-martial of Col. Oran K. Henderson have testified that in the aftermath of My Lai, while the memory of the body-strewn village still was fresh, no officer questioned the troops.

"I was troubled in my feelings," said Ronald L. Haeblerle, an Army photographer who accompanied Charlie Company on the March 16, 1968 raid. He said he was particularly upset about the shooting of children but did not make any report and kept color pictures he had taken of the grisly scenes to himself.

"There was fear on my part and Jay Roberts' about turning over what we had or telling someone about it," Haeblerle testified Tuesday at Henderson's trial on charges he attempted to cover up the incident. Roberts was an Army reporter who accompanied Haeblerle on the assault.

"We were fearful about what would happen the next time the 31st Public Information Detachment went into the field. The men would be fearful for their lives, about what could happen to them and their cameras," Haeblerle said.

Henderson, 51 today, was commanding officer of the 11th Brigade at the time of the infantry sweep through My Lai. He is charged with failing to investigate reports of a massacre, failing to report it to higher headquarters and lying twice to an Army investigative board.

Haeblerle has disclosed previously that he earned about $35,000 from the sale of the color pictures after events at My Lai became public knowledge. He said it was common knowledge in his unit that he carried his own camera in addition to the Army's black and white cameras. He said he was not asked for the color film.

"Did anyone ask you about the photos or their contents prior to leaving Vietnam," asked the prosecutor, Maj. Carroll J. Tichenor.

"No."

"Would you have released the color film if you had been asked by Col. Henderson?" "I would have released the film if I were asked."

Later, under cross examination, Haeblerle admitted "in my mind I would turn them over . . . but who's to say at that time."

Another of Tuesday's five witnesses—S. Sgt. Lones R. Warren, now an instructor in a correctional training company at Ft. Riley, Kan.—was asked if he heard helicopter crewmen complain about indiscriminate killing of civilians.

He said he had not.

Q. While at LZ Dottie (the staging area,) did you hear reports of criminal activity involving Charlie Company?

A. No sir.

Q. Did you hear about an investigation?

A. No sir.

Q. Did you hear any rumors about anything unusual?

A. I did overhear just a general statement they were raising hell about My Lai.

Student Gets Right To Picket Company

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A University of Houston student who believes he got a bad deal from Sharpstown Dodge here won the right Monday to keep on picketing the company.

Joel M. Selsky, started picketing the car firm Aug. 7 with friends after he said a 1968 Corvette he purchased from the company was not as represented. "I'd like to take the car back and have them give me my money," he said Monday.

District Court Judge William N. Blanton refused to temporarily restrain Selsky and his friends from picketing the dealer.

The judge said he could not see where Selsky and his friends were violating the law or were about to cause grievous harm.

Sharpstown Dodge President G. F. Waackey claimed Selsky was blocking the company's entrances and exits and was stopping traffic along the road, affecting its business.

Receives Special Training

Dr. James R. Waddell, 2416 South Quincy, Veterinary Medical Officer with the Animal Health Division, Agricultural Research Division, USDA, Veterinary Division, Missouri Department of Agriculture, recently participated in a mouth-to-mouth resuscitation training session at the District Three Health Office, Missouri Division of Health, Jefferson City. To Waddell's left is William A. Kuster, Public Health Educator with the Division of Health.

Iceland Is Cool, Clean

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Remote Iceland, which has one of the highest standards of living in the world, also has one of the highest standards of public sanity.

The capital of Reykjavik, for instance, doesn't allow dogs within the city limits, no matter how pure the pedigree. Man's best friend can sniff around the fjords and geysers, but he's banned from city streets until he masters the skills of indoor plumbing.

The city also sets aside an octagonal-shaped house way out on the point of a lagoon in a public park where budding bassoon, flugel horn, viola or what-have-you virtuosi can practice their riffs and arpeggios without maddening the crowd.

Reykjavik further coddles the eardrums of its 80,000 inhabitants by keeping its jet airport at Keflavik, 35 miles away, despite constant piercing screams from the international carriers who call at this halfway station between continents.

Since hot steam rising from underground thermal springs heats most of the buildings, the capital is virtually a smokeless city, but not a smell-less city, especially when the wind is out of the west, which is where the fish factories happen to be.

But such pungent aromas are perfume to the sturdy nostrils of the Icelanders, who depend upon fish for 80 per cent of their economic well-being.

Iceland challenges society to enjoy itself responsibly by combining one of the world's toughest driving-while-intoxicated laws with two potent national drinks. Brennivin, a fiery, innocent-looking schnapps, would jar a polar bear from his floe. Ansi, meaning donkey, mingles a home-distilled aqua vitae with ginger ale to induce instant sagas. At the first pop of a bottle top, the police are usually on patrol in the nearest parking lot ready to administer a balloon test, followed by a mandatory blood test, followed by anything from revocation of license to a stiff jail sentence if the imbibers venture near a vehicle.

Iceland has one dry day a week, Wednesday, when only wine is drunk.

Thanks to the encircling Gulf Stream, erroneously named Iceland has a cool, temperate climate that the meteorologists call oceanic.

As a civilization, Iceland has the Althing, the oldest parliament in Europe, and a 100 per cent literacy rate that it satisfies by publishing more books per capita than any place on earth.

Eskimos have been artists for more than 4,000 years.

Now you'll start eating bread again. And you'll love it! This delicious new loaf tastes a little like homemade, a little like the white bread you're used to. It's the bread for today's tastes and fast-paced life.

Every slice is a slice of life, because Soya-Serve is fortified with extra protein. You get the kind of body-building nutrition everybody needs, every day. The extra protein comes from the soybean, that "miracle" food that's a powerhouse of nutrition.

Enriched with extra vitamins and minerals, too.

Soya-Serve is so good, it's going to make a bread-lover out of every member of your family.

And you'll be glad, because there's body-building protein in every bite!

Soya-Serve is made according to the Blend-K formula developed by scientists at Kansas State University.

The Petrified Forest is part of Arizona's Painted Desert and has the world's largest known display of petrified wood. The World Almanac says. These trees were killed by fire, insects and fungus; then covered by mud, sand and volcanic ash containing silica. The wood became petrified by absorbing silica carried by ground water.

Vietnam 'Election' Is Shame on War's Dead

By CARL T. ROWAN

WASHINGTON — The word that best describes the presidential election fiasco in South Vietnam is "sacrilege."

Rowan

For it is a blight upon the memory of the 45,442 Americans who died fighting to preserve "self-determination" for the South Vietnamese.

President Nguyen Van Thieu forced new election laws through so as to prevent his vice president, Nguyen Cao Ky, from opposing him. Much of the world must have shared the revulsion of Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh, who said:

"If the vice president of a country cannot run in an election, what kind of democracy is that?"

Now Minh himself has pulled out of the race with charges that Thieu has so stacked the deck as to make the election "a shabby farce."

These are sad developments for the Vietnamese people, of course, for they have suffered 136,525 deaths in a war that cannot possibly end if Thieu returns to power under dictatorial circumstances. The fighting will go on and the threat of coups will rise as powerful factions agitate for "reconciliation" with the North Vietnamese.

But the breakdown of democratic procedures is even more dismaying for Americans, especially those who entered the conflict out of a profound belief that the U.S. had a moral duty to make it possible for the South Vietnamese to determine their own destiny.

Our dead cannot know how this idealism has turned to ashes, but how galling it must be to the 300,000 Americans who were wounded to observe that "self-determination" is being denied the South Vietnamese people, not by northern Communists, but by their own power-hungry leaders.

The irony grows double-bitter when one observes that Uncle Sam continues to pay the piper to the tune of several billion dollars a year, but he couldn't call the tune to the extent of insuring that the South Vietnamese election at least had the appearance of a democratic choice.

The Nixon administration has done very well at collecting credit for the way it has lowered U.S. casualties in South Vietnam. Americans have been impressed when told that "only 13 Americans died in Vietnam last week," and that it was the fifth week in a row that fewer than 20 GIs were killed.

But the Thieu regime's shameful perversion of "democracy" is bound to sour Americans to the extent that there will be a clamor of people crying that the Saigon government is not worth 13 lives a week. And pressure will be renewed for a speedier U.S. withdrawal and a sharp reduction in economic and military aid.

The incredible thing about U.S. governments is that they seem never to learn of the dangers, the potential embarrassment, of becoming bedfellows of dictators and oppressors. We seem to find some overriding reason of "national interest" to go on aiding generals who destroy liberty in Greece, or oppress and kill thousands in East Pakistan, or become corrupt totalitarians in Indochina — even after we see them clearly for what they are.

That is one reason why the Senate Foreign Relations Committee must win its fight to force the Pentagon to let it see the five-year plan for spreading military aid around the world. The General Accounting Office has ruled that unless Defense Secretary Melvin Laird gives the report to the senators (or President Nixon invokes executive privilege and explains why the senators cannot see the report), foreign military aid will be halted on Sept. 1.

A Senate victory on this issue is important to restoring Congress to a meaningful role in the conduct of foreign policy. This will not make the U.S. "embarrassment-proof," but it will diminish the likelihood of new Vietnams popping up.

The Vietnam debacle occurred in part because Congress was for years a patsy, a gullible rubber stamp. So the senators are right in saying now that when the Pentagon asks Congress to allocate a billion dollars to foreign military aid, it ought to be prepared to tell the lawmakers where it plans to pump arms over the next five years.

The executive branch ought to be embarrassed enough over the current Saigon mess to want to share the blame for any such future messes. So perhaps an era of the executive's cavalier dealings with the Congress is coming to an end.

Kids Also Deserve Some Consideration

The latest instance of a young people's concert in Sedalia being cut short is one too many "misunderstandings."

On Thursday a performance by the Central Missouri Jazz Ensemble held in Liberty Park was abruptly concluded when a park officer cut off the power before the concert was scheduled to end.

Shortly thereafter five police cars and nine officers arrived on the scene. However well-intended this display of police power, the presence of so many officers could have prompted a confrontation much quicker than had the crowd been allowed to disperse on its own.

This is the third such episode in which scheduled rock and jazz concerts have been prematurely stopped by officials, whether of the park or police departments. The first was a rock concert in Liberty Park in which the plug was again pulled on the musicians, apparently due to a complaint from picnickers, although prior approval to hold the concert was obtained.

Recently a rock concert on the grounds of the Sedalia Country Club was broken up by police, again reportedly because of complaints.

Granted that rock is not everyone's idea of music, still efforts should be made to see that, once approval is given, scheduled concerts be allowed to continue to the appointed time.

By and large Sedalia's young people have proved themselves to be orderly and considerate in the relatively few special events they have staged. It's the adults who too often have been rash and rude in their actions.

When lights and power are arbitrarily cut off and audiences dispersed by the police—for no good reason—young people tend to react much like adults would under the same circumstances. They begin to wonder if they are being discriminated against as second-class citizens.

The parks superintendent has promised that such episodes will not happen again. We hope he's right.

Mitchell Aide Tied To Texas Promoter

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The full story can now be told of Assistant Attorney General Will Wilson's ties to a scandal-stained, $100 million financial empire that his criminal division is investigating.

On March 12, we linked him to a Texas wheeler-dealer appropriately named Frank Sharp. We have now dug up more details about their financial transactions, which continued after Wilson came to the Justice Department.

Sharp was a cornpone, church-going Texan who exchanged his Stetson for a homburg and became the slickest stock promoter since Billy Sol Estes. Sharp entangled a host of top Texas politicians, moon explorers and Jesuit fathers in his get-rich-quick schemes.

He bamboozled the Jesuit fathers, for example, into making him the first Protestant patron of the ancient New Orleans province of the Society of Jesus, then he left the reverend gentlemen holding the bag for $6 million.

The Securities and Exchange Commission also charged Sharp with a massive stock fraud scheme which, among other things, enabled some eminent Texans to make a fast fortune.

The "scheme and conspiracy," alleged the SEC, began in 1967—while Wilson was Sharp's principal attorney. Testifying behind closed doors, Sharp claimed he relied upon Wilson for legal guidance. As late as 1969, after Wilson was sworn in as assistant attorney general, he borrowed $25,000 from Sharp without putting up collateral.

The SEC named Texas Gov. Preston Smith, House Speaker Gus Mutscher and former State Attorney General Waggoner Carr among the politicians whom Sharp showered with blessings. The only Republican partaker, apparently, was Will Wilson. Yet his name, charitably, was left out of the official proceedings.

As chief of the Justice Department's criminal division, Wilson is in charge of enforcing law and order. He has the power, for instance, to decide which criminal cases the government will prosecute.

We are satisfied, however, that he has completely disqualified himself from making decisions in the Sharp case and has kept scrupulously out of the investigation. Insiders say he has even resisted the temptation to peek at the investigators' reports that mention his name.

We can reveal, however, what these confidential reports say about Wilson:

—As a member of the Texas Banking Commission, Wilson voted to grant a charter to Sharp's Sharpstown State Bank.

Shortly after he left the commission, he was retained by Sharp at a beginning fee of $1,000 a month. Wilson handled at least three lawsuits for the Sharpstown Bank and borrowed money from the bank to buy stock. He even opened a separate law office, rent free, in the bank building. Wilson told us he approved the Sharpstown Bank charter strictly on its merits and later established a law office in the bank building for the bank's convenience. He closed it after a year, he said, because it was too unprofitable.

—Wilson's net worth shot up from $680,000 to more than $1.5 million during his five-year association with Sharp. SEC investigators implied that Wilson acquired most of his new wealth through Sharp. The anti-crime chief acknowledged that his earnings from Sharp were "substantial," but pointed out that his law firm had dozens of other big-paying clients.

A confidential SEC memo details how Wilson acquired valuable property from Sharp supposedly without putting up a cent. In April, 1964, Sharp sold Wilson a five-acre industrial tract in Houston for a $50,000 promissory note. On the same day, Wilson borrowed $50,000 from Sharp without collateral and used it to purchase another 10-acre tract. Wilson continued to borrow money on his signature until he was $200,000 in hock to Sharp. Then he consolidated the debts into a $200,000 Sharpstown Bank loan, which he secured by offering the two tracts as collateral. Wilson told us he paid off the $50,000 promissory note, at 4½ per cent interest, with legal services. In 1968, he borrowed $200,000 from the Bank of Texas to pay off the Sharpstown Bank.

—Sharp used Wilson's brokerage account, on at least one occasion, to purchase stock for the wife of a federal bank examiner. The examiner, Ted Bristol had been checking the books of the Sharpstown Bank. Wilson said that he had no inkling of Bristol's identity, that Sharp had asked to use his account to buy stock for a "friend." The transaction, of course, was against federal regulations.

—Wilson borrowed a final $25,000 again without collateral, from Sharp after his arrival in Washington to take over the criminal division. "I wouldn't have borrowed the money," Wilson told us, "if I had known Sharp was in trouble with the SEC." The loan was paid off, he said, a few months ago.

We asked Wilson how he was able to borrow so much unsecured money from Sharp. "I was working for him, and he liked me," shrugged Wilson. It should also be added, in fairness, that Wilson had a net worth over $680,000 at the time of his first unsecured loan.

We tried to pin down whether Wilson had played a part, as legal advisor, in the alleged multi-million-dollar stock manipulations. Wilson refused to discuss the counsel he gave Sharp because of the lawyer-client relationship. From other competent sources, however, we learned that Wilson counseled against at least some of the schemes that got Sharp into trouble.

Wilson, meanwhile, shouldn't continue to direct criminal investigations for the Nixon administration until he is free of suspicion himself. All the facts in the case should be laid out in the sunlight.

Options For Nixon Are Few

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA News Analyst

Washington (NEA) — Even as the confusions of President Nixon's 90-day wage-price freeze are taking hold, the economic experts are trying to guess what he will do when the clamp-down period expires. They don't think his options are very heartening.

Blossat

One economist, who wants to be anonymous because he has colleagues in the administration, thinks extending the freeze another 90 days or more would be bad news—an admission the first freeze didn't do much. One of the President's politically sensitive friends agrees.

A second option, of course, is just to forget any further restraints after mid-November. Such a decision, it is suggested, could be accompanied by an appeal to business and labor to be good boys and not go hog wild.

The President's friend argues that, if the lid is to be lifted in November, Nixon will have to jawbone management and the unions heavily in the weeks ahead. His necessary theme: If you don't behave when the controls are removed, they'll go back on, harder than now.

My anonymous economist says a third option for the President would be to supplant the present freeze with more formal but also more flexible controls. For example, the rule might be that prices could move up 10 or 15 per cent at a maximum.

Another possible step is the establishment of detailed wage-price guidelines on the general pattern set in the Kennedy-Johnson era. This might be accompanied by a strongly worded threat to impose stiff controls, selectively, on anybody who gets sharply out of line.

Under this arrangement, the President might very well blink at all but flagrant violations of the guidelines. Indeed, their whole purpose might be conceived as an effort to prevent extreme wage-price moves which others in the economy use as a model.

Nobody here, of course, has any idea which option the President will choose. If his original economic blockbuster is any indication, he may delay decision until a very late hour.

Many people in politics, business and labor are complaining about the "unfairness" of the impact of the wage-price freeze. It is easy enough to document this. But that can hardly be used as an argument against controls. At any given point in time, there is always a substantial amount of inequity in the economy, whether it is frozen or unfrozen. If there were no freeze today, all kinds of imbalances—working hardship on some individuals and businesses—would be showing up in fresh profusion each day.

Obviously, the administration has to hope that the current freeze will not be outrageously inequitable, and that it will be reasonably effective in checking inflation.

But some sources here dare to say that the freeze might have a damper effect on those parts of the President's economic package designed specifically to stimulate the economy and produce more jobs.

It's being assumed that if a man knows he can buy a car cheaper under the Nixon plan, he's more likely to do it. It's being assumed, too, that if he knows his income tax bite next year will be a bit smaller, he also might be more in a buying mood.

Maybe these things won't happen. Perhaps the man whose wages are frozen, and might stay that way for much longer than 90 days, will decide it's not prudent to buy a car or a new sofa even though their cost to him is held steady. Saving money might seem wiser.

The point is, human behavior is more unpredictable than ever today. Classic economic thinking, which assumes certain business or consumer responses will follow almost automatically from certain actions, may not apply at all.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

For our final hand from "Tiger Bridge" we go to a tough team of four game. South wasn't proud of his four spade bid, but he was not going to let East shut him out. Anyway, South wasn't vulnerable. After West doubled and East ran to five hearts, South passed in the hope that his partner would be able to take three tricks against West. Then South suddenly found himself playing five spades doubled. South looked over dummy unhappily. His first thought was, "I should have doubled five hearts to keep my partner from bidding on." Then he thought a little more and decided that maybe everyone, or almost everyone, knew what he was doing. That East had bid five hearts because he thought his partner would make it and that East's analysis had been correct. In that case East would be void of spades. Acting on that premise South came to his hand by ruffing a club, led a small spade and called for dummy's 10. Then he drew the rest of the trumps, ruffed another club and led a diamond toward dummy's king. He had come to the conclusion that West had a singleton diamond and he hoped that it would be the 10 or the jack. It turned out to be the 10 and after this start it was a simple matter to finesse against East's jack and make his doubled contract. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Royals Need Extra Innings for Bosox

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Royals have won only two extra-inning games this year and the second came Tuesday night as Kansas City stretched its string to 10-straight over the Boston Red Sox.

Gail Hopkins' bases-loaded single in the 13th gave the Red Sox a 5-4 victory over the Red Sox.

Hopkins also delivered the game winning blow in Kansas City's other extra-inning victory, July 18, against Detroit.

Both teams hit freely as the Red Sox banged out 12 safeties and the Royals 16. Each team left 16 men stranded. A total of 13 walks were issued, seven by the Royals including six by starter Dick Drago over seven innings. Drago also contributed a wild pitch to the lengthy affair and his teammates bobbled the ball three times in the field.

Boston held a 3-0 lead going into the last of the third, scoring one run in each of the first three innings.

Then, the Royals jumped on starter Jim Lonborg for four runs on four hits, an infield out and a walk.

Carl Yastrzemski's sacrifice fly in the sixth brought in Mike Fiere to tie it.

The Red Sox used five pitchers in trying to halt their losing skid to Kansas City. The Royals countered with three, getting strong relief performances from Jim York and Tom Burmeier.

The victory went to Burmeier who pitched the last three and one-third innings, allowed only one hit, walked no one, and started the winning rally with a double.

Fred Patek followed with a bunt single and Joe Keough walked to set the stage for Hopkins.

The loss was charged to Luis Tiant, 0-7. Burmeier is 5-4.

Kansas City hopes to make it 11 straight tonight with Al Fitzmorris, 5-2, starting for the Royals against Gary Peters, 12-9.

A crowd of 9,963 was on hand for the three hour, 45-minute contest, pushing the Royals home attendance for 55 games to 754,486.

KU Concentrates On Defense Units

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas University and Kansas State University football teams come under the scrutiny of members of the Big Eight Skywriters tour today while other teams in the conference continue preparations for the season.

The 34 members of the tour were to look at the Jayhawks this morning and the Wildcats this afternoon.

The tour then goes to Oklahoma State Thursday, Oklahoma Friday, Colorado Saturday, Nebraska Monday, Iowa State Tuesday and Missouri next Wednesday.

After Tuesday's practices, most coaches had words of praise for their squads.

KU Coach Don Fambrough was happy with the work of his defense, saying it "is No. 1 in our minds this year. It was the reason we had trouble last year."

Two sophomore defensive halfbacks will undergo surgery and may miss the Jayhawk season. The left knee of Denny Lantz of Atlantic, Iowa, will be operated on and Alan McCoy of Shawnee Mission, Kan., needs internal surgery.

Kansas State Coach Vince Gibson termed the Wildcats' practice a "typical first scrimmage with a lot of mistakes."

However he said three players, fullback Tim McLane and defensive linemen Dennis Weinhold and Norm Dubois, showed a great deal of improvement over last season. Don Lareau, sophomore linebacker, will be lost about four weeks due to a cracked bone in his ankle.

At Stillwater, Coach Floyd Gass said the OSU Cowboys' "physical output was terrific, considering the conditions," which included a 95-degree temperature.

Defending national champion Nebraska worked on a passing attack which drew compliments from Coach Bov Devaney. "Our passing game is improving every day," he said. "The fellows are learning their patterns better."

The Cornhuskers were to have their first contact work today.

Tom Bevans moved into the top offensive center spot in the major shuffle at Colorado. Coach Eddie Crowder also liked the running of backs Jon Keyworth and Charlie Davis.

Missouri Coach Al Onofrio said, "We are not happy with the polish but then we are just trying to learn everything right now."

McQuitty at Practices

(Democrat-Capital Service)

LIBERTY, Mo. — Dick McQuitty, an all-state footballer from Smith-Cotton High School last year, was among a group of nearly 70 freshmen who reported for the opening of William Jewell College's football practice sessions Monday.

McQuitty, the outstanding lineman of the Tigers' squad and a captain, was also picked by the writers of Coach and Athlete Magazine as an honorable mention selection.

Bill Slater and Larry Burchett, who were selected to the first team all-state squad for Class A from state champion Cass Midway, were also among those reporting for practice.

Of those reporting, 30 freshmen were named to all-district, all-conference, or all-state honors.

Just Out of Reach

Don Kessinger of the Chicago Cubs can't quite reach this bounding single off the bat of Tony Perez during the Cincinnati-Chicago game, Tuesday in Chicago. The ball trickled into the outfield and was the 1,000 major league hit for Perez. The Reds edged the Cubs, 5-4. (UPI)

Fambrough Is Optimistic

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Don Fambrough, the new head football coach of the Kansas Jayhawks, makes this terse analysis:

"I'm optimistic about this team."

The fact that few people likely will go along with Fambrough's optimism doesn't bother the man who has taken over for the departed Pepper Rodgers.

"I've told the team there are two things we have to do," Fambrough said. "First, we have to be in the best physical condition of anyone we play and, second, we've got to play when we hurt a little bit."

"We can line up one offense and one defense and compete with all of the teams on our schedule. If we can avoid injuries in key positions, we'll have a good football team."

"If we are lucky with those injuries, I think we have a chance to win every game we play."

Fambrough bases his optimism for improvement over the 1970 team—one that finished 5-6 over-all—on three major factors:

1. Vastly improved passing in practice.
2. The ability of some players to play more than one position.
3. The players know the team's problems and are dedicated.

"I'm encouraged about our chances of throwing the football," Fambrough said. "Dan Heck, our quarterback, looks better than ever. Sophomore David Jaynes, another quarterback, is throwing the ball real well."

Fambrough points to four fine receivers, Lucius Turner, Marvin Foster, John Schroll and sophomore Bob Brueggling.

The Jayhawks have several players who will, if necessary, see action at more than one position. One is Chuck Schmidt, a senior from Hays, Kan., who is being groomed to play wing-back, fullback and running back.

"There are others who are playing two positions," said Fambrough, who was schooled in football at a time when players did more than one thing.

"This is the way we have to operate because of our lack of depth."

Fambrough says offensively, the Jayhawks are blessed with three good running backs, Steve Conley, who will fill the role vacated by all-Big Eight John Riggins; Jerome Nelloms and sophomore Delvin Williams.

Vince O'Neil, another running back will help the Kansas cause later in the season. The swift, elusive O'Neil is ineligible for the first four games, all nonconference, because of his involvement in a recruiting violation by another school.

Fambrough thinks Bobby

Childs, a senior offensive tackle, "has a chance to make it big. The trouble is nobody is pushing him. If he was afraid of his job, he probably would be twice as good." Center Mike McCoy is another gem in the offensive line.

The Kansas defense, poorest in the Big Eight a year ago, has shown signs of improvement.

"We have one real fine defensive unit," Fambrough insists. There's a big gap between the No. 1 and No. 2 player. This is also true of our offense. The success of our football team will depend on our defense. We can't win without it. We can put points on the scoreboard if our defense can get the ball for us."

The Jayhawks' biggest guns on defense are expected to be Kenny Page, who made 122 tackles as a sophomore but was bothered by a leg injury most of 1970, and defensive end Eddie

New Defense Coach

BUFFALO (AP) — Coach Harvey Johnson of the Buffalo Bills announced Tuesday that Doc Urich, who joined the team's coaching staff 13 days ago, would serve as defensive coach.

Urich, formerly head coach at Northern Illinois University, replaces Tom Day, who was named the team's pro talent scout, a new position.

Urich and Edwards may have won a job as a kickoff and punt return specialist on the basis of his performance in the Steelers first preseason game. He returned two kickoffs 50 and 51 yards and had a 95-yard punt return called back because of a clipping penalty.

Jon Kolb, John Brown and Rick Sharp form the nucleus of the offensive line at the tackle spots.

Frank Lewis, the club's top draft choice in 1971, will team with Ron Shanklin at the wide receiver positions.

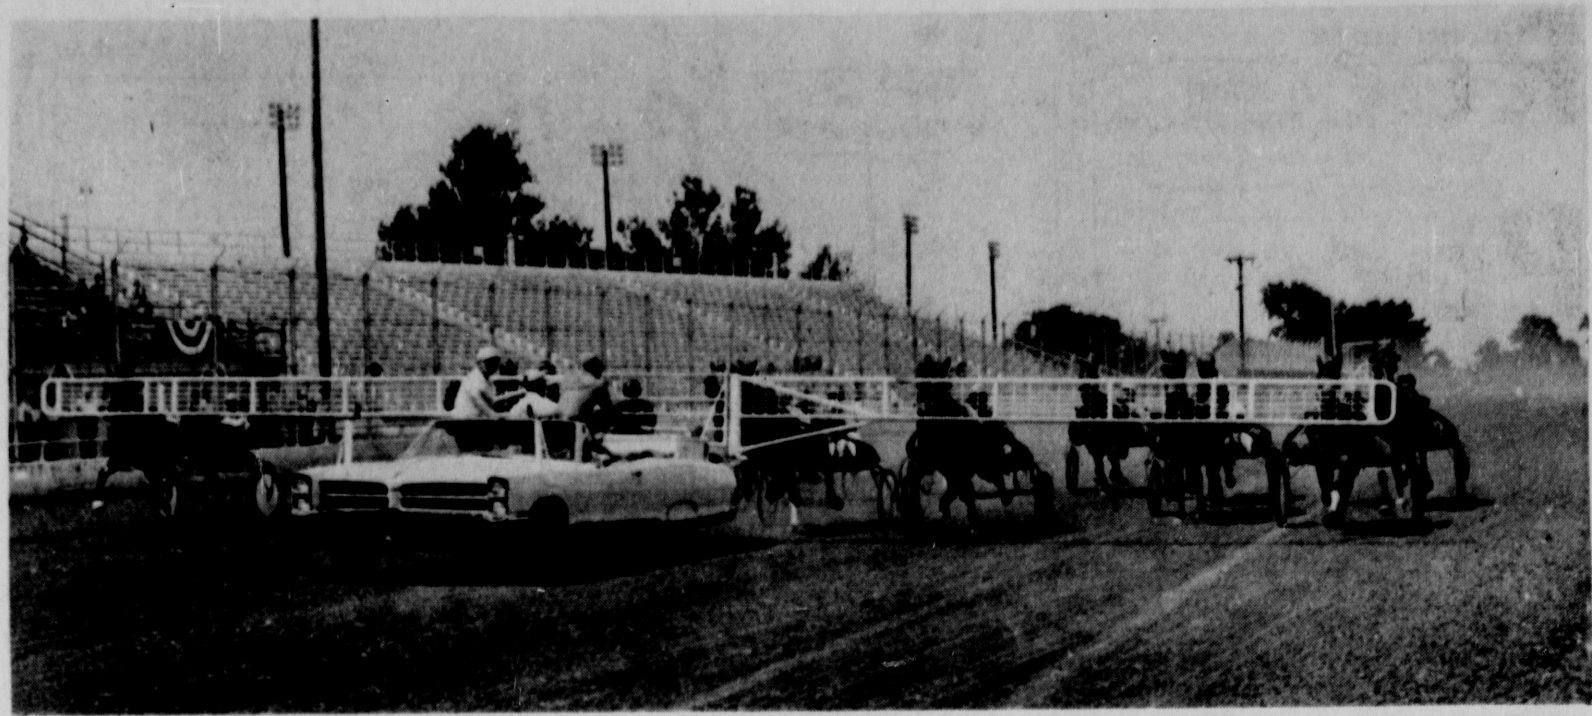

Last year, the Steelers split victories with their three divisional opponents.

"We have to win both games with them this year," said Noll. "That's the only way we can expect to do well in our division."

Four Sign Pacts

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins today announced the signing of four veterans, including forwards Ken Hodge and Wayne Cashman for the 1971-72 National Hockey League season.

Center Mike Walton, obtained from the Toronto Maple Leafs last January, and goalie Eddie Johnston also were signed.

Daring Dennis Goes 2:02.2

Fast Track for Horses

Tuesday's track conditions for the opening day of harness racing at the Missouri State Fair resulted in some of the fastest times in recent years being turned in.

Daring Dennis, a three-year-old pacer, ran heats of 2:02.2 and 2:03.2 in winning over a field of 14 other three-year-olds. Sixteen horses were entered in the event, the most that are allowed to be run at one time by the United States Trotting Association.

However one horse did scratch prior to the first heat, leaving the field at 15. By the time the second heat was ready to be run, three more had dropped out of the field.

Daring Dennis, owned and driven by Kermit Hinshaw of Richland, Iowa, came across the finish line well ahead of the pack.

Jay's Gal, owned and driven by Day Mingus, Kirksville, won both heats of the three-year-old trot. The filly, who ran the fastest time of those trotters entered last week during the Illinois State Fair at 2:02.2, was caught at 2:07.2 and 2:06.2 in winning the respective heats over six other horses.

Ember Star and Meg's Rhythm shared the winner's circle in the two heats for two-year-old pacers, but it was Frank Pighetti's Meg's Rhythm that took the top honors winning the second heat in a time of 2:09.2. R.R. Doggett drove the winning horse, which is from Monroe, Wis.

Pony races were held between the pacing and trotting heats. Flying Dutchman, owned by the Rancho Mesa, Concordia, won over the field for those horses that had run 2:25 and slower.

Mr. Charlie, Shelbyville, Mo., and owned by Dennis Thrasher, won both heats for those ponies that had times of 1:36-1:43.

Clocked at 2:02.2

Cooper Moves Up to Fourth In Standings

(Democrat-Capital Service)

ODESSA — Donnie Cooper, Sedalia, who drives a 1969 Dodge Super Bee, has moved up another notch in the stock car division standings at 1-70 Speedway.

Cooper, who was in fifth place last week, has overtaken Harold Young, Kansas City, Kan., and now holds a slim lead over Young for fourth-place honors.

Terry Bivins, Shawnee Mission, Kan., leads Dave Wall, Kansas City, Kan., by a wide margin in first place.

Gary Martin, California, retained his solid hold on third ahead of Cooper.

Jim Sprague, Lee's Summit, has the lead in the hobby stock division.

Record-Setting Pace by Aaron

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just about every time Hank Aaron plays, it seems that he breaks a record.

It seems that way because he does.

Aaron, who passed Ty Cobb on the all-time list of total bases Monday, barged by Tris Speaker Tuesday night in career runs scored as he helped the Atlanta Braves beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 15-5.

"Records just mean that I've been playing a long time," said Aaron, whose 37th homer of the year produced his 1,882nd lifetime run and placed him in sixth place.

And he has his sharp hitting eye on more production.

"I said before the season I'd like to hit 40 homers," said Aaron, "but I probably should pass that now."

Does he think he can hit the 50-homer level, something he's never accomplished in his fabled career?

"No, I have no ideas of 50," said Aaron, modestly.

Elsewhere in the National League Monday night, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Houston Astros 2-1; the Cincinnati Reds stopped the Chicago Cubs 5-4; the Los Angeles Dodgers whipped the Montreal Expos 6-4; the San Diego Padres downed the Philadelphia Phillies 2-0 and the San Francisco Giants trimmed the New York Mets 3-2.

Among his varied accomplishments since he joined the major league with the old Milwaukee Braves in 1954, the 37-year-old Aaron has hit 629 home runs.

That puts him in third place behind San Francisco's Willie Mays, who has 644, and Babe Ruth, who had 714.

How does Hammerin' Hank feel every time they flash his record-breaking deeds on the scoreboard at Atlanta Stadium?

"I don't mind—as long as they don't flash my age," quipped Aaron.

Actually, Aaron has been tired of late although you'd never know it by his long-ball pace of five homers in six days that's boosted his RBI to 96 and his batting average to .322.

Mike Lum and Marty Perez joined Aaron in their hitting party hat produced 21 safeties against the Pirates' shell-shocked pitching staff. Lum drilled a three-run homer in the second inning and Perez belted a three-run blow in the third before Aaron unloaded in the fourth.

Pete Rose ripped three doubles and scored three runs and Woody Woodward slammed three hits to lead Cincinnati over Chicago.

Willie Davis slugged five hits, including a three-run triple, as Los Angeles stopped Montreal's eight-game winning streak.

Ed Acosta, a 27-year-old right-hander making his first major league start, hurled an eight-hit shutout for San Diego. Acosta, who was traded to the Padres Aug. 16, hurled three innings while with Pittsburgh last season for his only previous major league experience.

Juan Marichal pitched a five-hitter and Bobby Bonds crashed his 25th homer to power San Francisco over New York.

Exchanging Pleasantries?

Minnesota's George Mitterwald did not agree with home plate umpire Lou DiMuro's call of strike three in the ninth inning of the Detroit-Minnesota game

Tuesday night in Detroit. He says so in so many words. It took several of his teammates to restrain him. However, the Twins won, 3-1. (UPI)

Stottlemeyer Wins Duel

Yanks Stun Blue

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

To beat Vida Blue, it seems you've got to be just about perfect—and for six innings, Mel Stottlemeyer was.

The New York Yankees' big right-hander was absolutely perfect for 3 and two-third innings Tuesday night in Oakland and was still thinking no-hitter going into the seventh.

He had to settle for a three-hitter, though, while Blue, his dreams of a 30-victory season shattered, was saddled with his second successive four-hit, 1-0 loss. Gary Peters and the Boston Red Sox did it to him only last Friday night.

"Where is everybody?" Stottlemeyer mused as he stood virtually alone in front of his locker after the victory, his 13th in 24 decisions.

Most of the writers, it turned out, were clustered around Blue in the A's clubhouse. "Oh, well," Mel sighed. "I guess it's more rare for me to win a game than it is for him to lose one." The defeat was only the sixth for Oakland's 22-game winner.

In other American League games, Baltimore's Mike Cuellar and Minnesota's Jim Perry twirled four-hitters as the Orioles squeezed by the Chicago White Sox 1-0 and the Twins beat Detroit 3-1, California stunned Washington 2-1, Milwaukee overhauled Cleveland 6-5 and Kansas City toppled Boston 5-4 in 13 innings.

The Yanks got their lone run in the first inning on Thurman Munson's one-out single, Roy White's double and Felipe Alou's infield out.

Stottlemeyer, meanwhile, cut down the A's in order until Reggie Jackson drew a two-out walk in the fourth.

But it wasn't until the seventh that Rick Monday broke the spell with a leadoff bunt single—and when Dave Duncan also beat out a bunt, Mel's victory was in jeopardy.

But a forceout and Larry Brown's doubleplay grounder killed Oakland's only serious threat.

"I'm not crying," Blue said. "It would have been nice to win 30—but I would have had to win all of my remaining eight starts including this one."

"I'm satisfied with the game I pitched," he said. "I just didn't win."

Cuellar boosted his record to 16-6 with only his fourth victory in nine decisions since last month's All-Star break. He got the only run he needed in the first inning as Don Buford walked, sped to third on Brooks Robinson's single and cruised home on a double by Merv Rettenmund.

The ace left-hander, out-dueling Tom Bradley, allowed only two White Sox runners to reach second base and limited them to singles by Bradley in the third, Carlos May in the fourth, Jay Johnstone in the sixth and Steve Huntz in the ninth.

Clyde Wright of the Angels won a brilliant duel against Pete Broberg, beating the Senators with a two-hitter. Broberg, Washington's flamethrowing rookie, appeared to have a 1-0 two-hit victory of his own before he issued a one-out ninth-inning walk to Jim Fregosi, then served up a home run pitch to Jim Spencer.

College Preview

Bo Schembechler Sees More Balance in Loop

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan has won 25 football games in the past three seasons and there's no reason to believe 1971 will find the Wolverines of Coach Bo Schembechler on any kind of downsizing.

For the past three years UM has won eight, eight and nine games while losing a total of only six and in each season the traditional season-ending clash against Ohio State has determined the Big Ten champion-ship.

Schembechler believes Woody Hayes' Buckeyes are obviously the team to beat once again, but he adds emphatically and cautiously "I think Northwestern, Michigan State, Illinois and some others will be much better than they have been. They're closing that gap and it won't be strictly Michigan and Ohio State any more."

OSU finished sixth nationally in the final Associated Press Poll of the 1970 season, with a 9-0 record, while Michigan ended up with a 9-1 mark.

There are 15 two-year lettermen back out of 23 letterwinners and Schembechler will be relying heavily on those seniors, "to give us the leadership we need."

Quarterback is the biggest questionmark as fall practice got under way Monday in preparation for the season opener at conference foe Northwestern Sept. 11—a week earlier than normal because of an expanded schedule from 10 to 11 games.

There are six candidates for quarterback and four are sophomores. The other two are juniors and one of those, Larry Cipa, is still a soph in eligibility. The only lettering quarterback is junior Frank McBride, and he is probably about fifth on the list depth-wise.

Sophs Kevin Casey and Tom Salde will likely battle for the top spot ahead of sophomore Greg Koss, Cipa, McBride and Dave Brandon.

Bo has some of the best backfield depth in the country at the other positions, with Billy Taylor a strong candidate for All-American running at tailback for the third year and fellow senior Glenn Doughty a stand-out wingback.

Fritz Seyferth, a good blocking fullback and power runner, will have to work hard for a starting berth ahead of highly touted sophs Ed Shuttlesworth and Bob Thornbladh. Harry Banks and Alan "Cowboy" Walker will back up Taylor and expect to play considerably.

Five of six offensive linemen are letter winners and four of those won monograms twice. Most notable, perhaps, is guard Reggie McKenzie and center Guy Murdoch, both candidates for post-season honors.

Jim Brandstatter will have a tough time filling the shoes of departed All-American tackle Dan Dierdorf and will be pressed by soph prospect Curtis

Dawson Undergoes Minor Operation

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Quarterback Len Dawson of the Kansas City Chiefs underwent minor surgery here Tuesday.

Nature of the operation was not disclosed, but it was unrelated to football. Dawson will remain in the Chiefs' training camp at nearby Liberty, Mo., but will miss two days of field practice.

Jockey Having Problems

CLEVELAND (AP) — "They can't really say it's experience," mutters young Cheryl White. "It has to be the fact I'm a girl or the fact I'm black."

Two months ago the 17-year-old country girl from Rome, about 50 miles east of Cleveland, was graduated from high school, then broke a barrier of sorts by becoming the nation's first black female jockey.

Since that June 15 inaugural, a last-place finish aboard Ace Reward at Thistledown in Cleveland, it's been rough riding—or, more precisely, rough getting rides—Cheryl complains. She blames it on racial and sexual prejudice.

"I think with certain people it's a little bit of both—but then I guess it's mostly being a girl,

I would say, because two other riders, apprentice jockeys that started after I did, have no trouble getting out."

She might never have gotten a mount had it not been for the fact her father, Robert is a trainer. The 19 rides she has managed since her debut have been on horses he owns.

He's been a trainer since 1927 and has been at Thistledown for 19 years. Cheryl has been his constant companion at the track for several years.

"I figured since I'd been here for years that a lot of trainers would give me a shot because I've been around and I know them," said the poised teenager. "But I found out the hard way."

She has posted two seconds and two thirds in her brief appearances, all but one of the thirds accomplished in four starts at Waterford Park in West Virginia.

Patty West was the leading rider at Waterford before she went to Pocono Downs in Pennsylvania, Cheryl notes.

"She almost rides at least five a night," she said. "It's just the difference in people, I guess. You have to have the chance. You have to have the horses under you. And that's what I haven't had."

Cheryl wants to make riding a career but will enter Bowling Green next year to pursue a degree in education, said she plans to ride at the Meadows which opens in October in Pennsylvania and then go to Florida.

Webster's Woes

Johnson Sidelined

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Giants Coach Alex Webster, who's had his share of troubles lately, got some more bad news Tuesday.

Ron Johnson, who rushed for 1,027 yards from his halfback position last season, will be sidelined for the remaining three weeks of training camp because of a thigh injury which will require surgery.

The injury, a deep bruise on his right thigh, was suffered two months ago when Johnson was playing a pickup basketball game in Ann Arbor, Mich. Some blood which collected within the tissue has not cleared up, so doctors will have to operate to drain it off.

Dr. Anthony Pisani, Giants' team physician, said Johnson might be ready to play in the team's final preseason game, or in the first game of the regular season against Green Bay one week later.

So Webster, whose team dropped its first three exhibition games and who has watched players—including quarterback Fran Tarkenton, the key man in the team's offense—come and go in training camp, now has to worry about his running game, too. Bobby Duhan will start in place of Johnson when the Giants meet Philadelphia at Princeton, N.J. Saturday, but Les Shy, Joe Morrison and top draft choice Rocky Thompson should also see action at halfback.

Webster cut four players from the squad Tuesday, including veteran Willie Townes, a defensive end. Townes was once a regular on the Dallas Cowboys' Dooomsday Defense, but lost his job to Larry Cole.

With the Giants, Webster felt Townes would not be effective unless he reduced his weight to 265. He couldn't get below 275, so now he's gone.

Another veteran to get the ax was safety Goldie Sellers, who was dropped by Houston. The Oilers also signed much-travelled place kicker Booth Lustig and dealt defensive lineman Russell Price to Miami for a draft choice.

The Los Angeles Rams cut loose wide receiver Andy "Rabbit" Vataha, a 170-pounder who was Jim Plunkett's favorite target at Stanford.

The Battle of Texas—an exhibition game between Dallas and Houston in the Astro-dome—will be played Thursday night, but for Roger Staubach it will be something more. Staubach is battling incumbent Craig Morton for the starting quarterback job at Dallas, and Coach Tom Landry has named him to start against the Oilers.

Staubach has played well during preseason games thus far, while Morton was inconsistent in last week's 16-15 victory over Cleveland. A strong performance against the Oilers would greatly enhance Jolly Roger's chances of gaining the starting berth, although Landry has indicated he is in no hurry to make his choice.

Tuesday's Stars

PITCHING — Mel Stottlemeyer, Yankees, fired perfect ball for 3 2-3 innings and a no-hitter for six, then settled for a three-hitter as New York downed Oakland's Blue 1-0.

BATTING — Willie Davis, Dodgers, went five-for-five, including a bases-loaded triple in a five-run sixth that powered Los Angeles to a 6-4 victory over Montreal.

First Since 1958

PGA Match Play Tourney Begins

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus is nearing the end of his play for this season and already is looking forward to next year and, possibly, another assault on a sweep of golf's Big Four championships. "I'm only going to play maybe one more regular tour event this year—and that's only maybe," Nicklaus said today before teeing off in the first round of the unique $200,000 United States Professional Match Play championship.

"I've got a pretty heavy European travel schedule this fall," he said.

"And 1972 could be a big year for me, with the Big Four championships being played where they are, and I sure want to be sharp for them."

The Masters, of course, is at Augusta, Ga., the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach, Calif., the British Open at Muirfield in Scotland and the PGA national championship at Oakland Hills, near Detroit.

"They're all courses I like and that I play reasonably well," said Nicklaus, who, admittedly, was seeking a never-accomplished sweep of those four titles this season.

He got off to a good start with a victory in the PGA, but finished second to Charles Coody in the Masters, lost the U.S. Open in a playoff to Lee Trevino and finished sixth behind Trevino in the British.

But it's been one of the best seasons ever for the Golden Bear.

He's the No. 1 seed in this five-day tournament, has won four times, has finished ninth or better 13 of his 15 starts and, with a leading $205,568 in money winnings, is closing in on his own single season record of $211,556.

Single rounds, with half the 64-man field being eliminated each time, are scheduled today, Thursday and Friday. The quarter-finals and semi-finals are set for Saturday with the two survivors meeting for the $35,000 first prize Sunday on the 6,973 yard, par 72 Country Club of North Carolina course.

Nicklaus went against former PGA champion Ray Floyd in his first round match. Arnold Palmer, No. 2, played Australian Bruce Devlin. Gary Player of South Africa, the No. 3 player making his first start in this country in two months, faced Homero Blancas.

Eyeing New Title

Arnold Palmer has his eye on the ball and a new brand new PGA title, which is a hybrid — both match and medal play. Palmer said he'd like to see more of the match play tournaments on the tour. Match play is the oldest form of competition, but it has been absent from the PGA tour since 1958. The United States Professional Match Play Championship was scheduled to start Wednesday in Pinehurst, N.C. (UPI)

International Conference Appears To Be in Making

LONDON (AP) — A high-level international conference to negotiate changes in the values of major currencies appeared to be shaping up as the American dollar sagged further today in European money markets.

British officials said reports from the International Monetary Fund in Washington indicated the meeting probably will be held in London on Sept. 15, the day after finance ministers of the European Common Market meet in Brussels in another attempt to settle their differences over changes in monetary values.

Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, secretary-general of the IMF, indicated in a television interview Tuesday night that both Japan and the United States had withdrawn their objections to an early meeting of the so-called "Group of 10" leading financial powers.

The U.S. government was previously reported to believe the monetary crisis should be thrashed out first in bilateral talks.

The crisis arose from President Nixon's action cutting the ties between gold and the U.S. dollar. That move in effect, set currencies adrift to seek their true values according to market forces.

The Japanese government was reported Tuesday to have decided to press for "international multilateral readjustment" of currency values as the best way of ending the crisis.

Messages reaching the British government from Ottawa indicated that Canadian Finance Minister Edgar Benson, this year's chairman of the "Group of 10," and Rinaldo Ossola, head of the Bank of Italy, have agreed that the group's committee of deputies should discuss the meeting. Ossola is chairman of the deputies committee, which is expected to meet Sept. 4 or 5.

The aim of the London conference will be to draft recommendations for changes in money values to put before the annual assembly of the IMF in Washington.

Reports of a "working paper" drafted by IMF experts suggesting changes in the values of various currencies got a stormy reception in some European countries.

"The rates made known by IMF circles cannot serve as a realistic basis for a worldwide realignment of parities," West German Finance Minister Karl Schiller said in a statement.

British officials said their government had no intention of permitting a seven per cent increase in the value of the pound sterling in relation to the dollar as suggested by the IMF experts. The ailing state of Britain's economy makes such a move unlikely, they pointed out.

Farm Roundup

Claims New Herbicide Shows Future Promise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says a new herbicide shows promise of helping control the farmer's number one problem weed—nutgrass.

The herbicide, designated MBR 8251, has shown in tests that it can control nutgrass in fields of corn, flax, snap beans, soybeans, peanuts, cotton, cabbage, rape, and cucumbers, the department says.

Purple nutgrass is a major problem for farmers in the south Atlantic and Gulf Coast states and from the middle of southwestern California east to southwest Arizona. Yellow nutgrass is found in all states except North Dakota and Alaska.

Both weeds affect almost all agricultural crops, the department said. They are difficult to kill because their seeds remain alive in soil for years.

The department said tests run at Beltsville, Md., showed 2.5 pounds per acre of the new herbicide was enough to kill 70 per cent of the nutgrass.

It said further tests are being made to determine if the compound is biodegradable, toxic to warm-blooded animals or has any adverse effect on the environment.

Pesticides must be tested by the government before they can be released for public use.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers who use tractors to stretch barbed or woven wire fences are playing with danger, the Agriculture Department says.

In a new booklet titled "Fences for the Farm and Rural Home," the department lists safety rules and general information for would-be fences.

The 26-page booklet contains information on the selection of fencing, preparatory work, fenceposts, woven wire fences, barbed wire fences, cable fences, board fences, electric fences, gateways and fence maintenance.

It cautions that use of a tractor to stretch wove or barbed wire fencing can cause serious injury if the wire breaks and recoils.

Other safety hints: Wear heavy gloves, boots or high shoes and tough, close-fitting clothing; carry nails or other fasteners in a metal container or apron—definitely not in the mouth; stand on the opposite side of the post from the wire when stretching woven or barbed wire; and do not rub hands or gloves on the face when working with preservative-treated posts.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says turkey production this year is expected to total 117.8 million birds—about 1 per cent more than last year's production.

Increased output, the Crop Reporting Board said, is expected in all regions except the eastern North Central area.

Biggest gain is predicted in North Carolina where production is estimated at 9 per cent more than last year.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON ZONING AREAS ANNEXED

APRIL 19, 1971
The Planning and Zoning Commission of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, will hold a Public Hearing for the purpose of determining, establishing and regulating zoning districts and restricting the erection, construction, reconstruction, alteration or use of buildings, structures and land in all that area annexed to the City of Sedalia, Missouri, effective April 19, 1971. These areas are known as the PERMANEE TRACT, COLLEGE TRACT and 32ND STREET TRACT and are more fully described in Ordinances 6848, 6849, and 6850, respectively.

Therefore, in compliance with Sections No. 60.050 and 60.060, Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1969, other applicable statutes, and the Zoning Ordinance, Chapter 34 of the Code of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, said Planning and Zoning Commission will meet and hold said Public Hearing in the Council Chambers, City Hall Building, Sedalia, Missouri at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, September 2, 1971, at which time and place, parties in interest and citizens shall have an opportunity to be heard.

Losing Her Pet

Eleven-year-old Julie English began to cry as the bidding started on her Hereford steer "Clyde," at the Indiana State Fair in Indianapolis Monday. Clyde was the Grand Champion Steer of the fair and was sold for $2,800 and a $1,500 scholarship, although at the time Julie didn't seem to care about anything but losing Clyde. She is from rural Clayton, Ind. (UPI)

Symphony Still Pioneering After 77 Years

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — The Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra, one of Britain's most remarkable cultural institutions, is still pioneering—as it has done in one way and another for 77 years.

It started as a small municipal band in uniforms and pillbox hats. Now, with 115 members, it is the largest permanent orchestra in Britain, and the oldest except for the Halle.

It has led the way in Britain in pioneering avant garde music. At one time it was famous for pioneering British music, playing more than the rest of Britain's orchestras combined.

Five years ago, under its Romanian conductor Constantin Silvestri, it toured Europe and was hailed by critics as one of the finest orchestras in the world.

Since 1954 it has been a pioneer in regional musical development in the West of England. Now it is pioneering in a new direction and seeking commercial sponsorship to keep it alive.

Since Silvestri's death in 1969, its fortunes have ebbed and rising costs have imperiled its future.

"We are facing extinction," said Kenneth Matchett, manager of the orchestra. "At the present rate of loss we should incur a deficit of $2,400,000 in the next 10 years."

Matchett and his management committee are looking to business firms for support. Commercial sponsorship has become an important factor in sports events in Britain in recent years but is still virtually unknown in the arts.

Among all the world's orchestras, the story of the Bournemouth Symphony is probably the strangest.

These days its job is to give concerts to the scattered population of the West of England. But from 1893 to 1954 it was the municipal orchestra of Bournemouth, maintained wholly by the town and never traveling outside it.

The man who created the orchestra was Sir Dan Godfrey, noted in his day as a fine musician, a fanatical enthusiast and a character among characters.

In 1893, in uniform and pillbox hat, he was engaged to provide a band of 24 for the summer season. He stayed for 41 years and made Bournemouth famous as a musical center.

Amid constant and often spiteful opposition, he started modest symphony concerts and by sheer doggedness and persistence persuaded the town council to build up the orchestra piece by piece as the years went by. Although public support for the concerts was lukewarm, he bullied and cajoled the councilors into maintaining a symphony orchestra whether they liked it or not.

When it was not giving symphony concerts, the orchestra was playing light music or accompanying variety shows, and the cost of the classical music was swallowed up in the overall budget. Godfrey was manager and conductor combined.

His outstanding achievement was in British music—and it was for this he earned his knighthood. He used to invite composers to Bournemouth to conduct their own works.

Since his death in 1939 his name has faded. Few of Britain's young concertgoers of today have ever heard of him.

In 1954, Bournemouth refused to carry the full financial load any longer. So the orchestra was turned into a regional concern and has since been supported by more than 100 local government bodies representing cities, towns and rural areas.

In return all get a share of the concerts. But Bournemouth is still the orchestra's base.

Lobbyists Form For College Students

By CHARLES McFADDEN
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — In an age when college students and politics are viewed with disfavor by many, Dick Twohy operates under a double handicap: he's a lobbyist representing college students.

Twohy, 26, mustachioed and single, represents 106,000 full-time University of California students before the California Legislature.

"With respect to students, this is an effort to get some off the streets and into the system," he says. "The decisions are made in dull gray committee rooms. If you're concerned not only with venting anger but changing things for the better, then we have to roll up our sleeves."

But he admits there is "a certain amount of skepticism" among students about his efforts to put their interests before California's 120 legislators.

The student lobby operates out of a two-room suite in an old office building near the Capitol.

Twohy's $10,000-a-year salary is paid out of student body funds on the nine campuses. He hopes to operate on a budget of $84,000 during the 1971-72 fiscal year, depending on how much money the students put up. His contract is with the UC Council of Student Body Presidents.

Twohy doesn't have the reservoirs of dollars some lobbyists can promise for legislative campaigns. He says he operates on a combination of persuasion and attempts to muster public opinion.

"We've had varying responses," Twohy says, "but in general, this effort is pretty well received."

"So far I haven't been thrown out of anyone's office."

Legislators contacted said Twohy maintains a generally low profile.

"He may very well be effective," said one, "but I've only had one contact with him this year."

Twohy contacts legislators in their offices, in the corridors of the Capitol and in committee hearings, as do other lobbyists. But unlike some other lobbyists, he doesn't buy drinks and dinners for the lawmakers.

"I never have. We'd be glad to do it but the legislator would have to pick up the tab."

He says the part of his job that gives him the most satisfaction is "seeing an item that is of particular concern to students win passage over determined opposition."

Twohy never attended the University of California. He was picked earlier this year by the student body presidents from a field of 28 candidates. He grew up in San Jose and attended Seattle University and the New York University School of Law.

The lobby has chalked up one major victory in defeat of a measure which would have made it easier to revoke a student's financial aid if he was involved in campus disturbances, Twohy said.

He argued that the measure was inherently discriminatory against the poor, because a rich student would not be affected. The lobby is also pushing a bill to increase the amount of money available for students under the Educational Opportunity Program.

Although much of his time so far has been involved in bread-and-butter issues for students, Twohy feels he really speaks for the entire younger generation—or at least the socially-aware part of it.

"A large number of young people see that our social institutions and way of providing a decent life for all of our citizens have got to undergo change—and this extends beyond the parochial concerns of the campus," he says.

HANG-OVER REMEDY

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP) — A West German professor claims that plain mineral water is the best remedy for a hang-over. Prof. Hans Glatzel, formerly of the Max Planck Scientific Institute in nearby Dortmund, said that after a drinking spree, the human kidney must secrete more liquid than usual and with it too much salt. Sodium in mineral water replenishes the salt level, the professor said.

Space Age Hermit Maintains Quiet Repose

EVERGLADES, CITY, Fla. (AP) — Had he been born 200 years ago, Arthur Darwin might have become a mountain man and explored the Rockies. As it was, he was born nearly 100 years later and became a space age hermit.

Since 1945, when he was a mere 70, Darwin has lived alone on Posseum Key, a tiny island in the heart of a watery wilderness inside Everglades National Park. His one-room concrete block home is reachable only by boat.

A man about 5-feet-5, Darwin is bent by the weight of 96 years of living. He walks with a hesitant, stumbling gait and his cheeks are weathered and liver spotted. But his sky blue eyes are as clear as a boy's.

"Come on up to the house," he said as the boat pulled up in front of his island landing. "The mosquitoes aren't so bad in there."

The 14-by-16-foot shack is dominated by a double bed, squarely in the center of the room. The exposed beams are blackened by years of cookfire smoke, and fishing gear litters the bare concrete floor. The only furniture, aside from the bed, is a propane gas stove, an open grill and a small trunk, covered with ancient magazines and newspapers. Two rusty rifles are stacked in the corner.

Except for a once-a-month boat trip to Everglades City for

Singular Celebrity

Arthur Darwin is a local celebrity — though his neighbors don't see much of him. A Space Age hermit now 96 years old, he has lived alone since 1945 on Posseum Key, an island in Everglades National Park, Fla. He rarely has visitors and only goes to Everglades City once a month to pick up his Social Security check and supplies. When asked if he gets lonely he says "It's not in my nature." (AP) supplies, a trip that takes about two hours each way in his skiff with its five-horsepower engine. He never leaves the island. He has weathered four or five hurricanes — "they don't do nothing" — and rarely has visitors.

On his monthly trip to civilization, Darwin picks up a $72 Social Security check and buys supplies for another month. In recent years his food has come mainly from cans and his only concessions to technology are radio batteries and propane gas.

Posseum Key is located at the southern tip of the Ten Thousand Islands on Florida's lower Gulf Coast. It's about 100 miles west of Miami and 40 miles south of Naples. After Everglades City, the only way one can reach the island is via a boat trip through desolate bayous that wind and weave through a myriad of small keys, all covered with dense mangroves.

Man has failed to leave his mark here. Abandoned fishing camps soon rot and are overgrown. There aren't even any beer cans — just wild ducks, herons, raccoons and an occasional alligator. Tarpon, snook and playful manatee ripple the streams. The sky is unclouded and the water is clean, albeit stained dark by the tannic acid released by the mangrove leaves.

Darwin lives here without electricity or running water — "just the rain." He goes to bed when it gets dark and rises with the sun. There's no ringing telephone and no stack of bills.

Darwin says "it's not in my nature" when asked if he gets lonely. Yet he lived in society for 70 years and raised 10 children at Evadale, Tex., before coming to Florida.

"I left Texas in '34 because of the Panic," he said. "There wasn't any work and I came here because I heard there was fur to be trapped here."

Darwin was 60 when he left Texas, and he never returned. He alighted in Everglades City and spent the next 10 years trapping and doing carpenter work before heading into the 'glades.'

Darwin's wife died years ago and he never sees any of his children except Luke, a son who visited his father and settled in Everglades City. On occasion, he may stay overnight with Luke.

When he first settled on Posseum Key, Darwin felt he was homesteading the island. But the federal government acquired the land in 1957 and gave him lifetime tenure.

"They just up and took it away from me," he said.

While he's not happy about what happened, he says he's more saddened by the changes in his world.

"When I first came here this place was a paradise. 'There was all the birds and fish and animals anybody could want. But they changed all that when they lowered Lake Okechobee."

After the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers lowered the lake in the 1950s, he said, the lack of available fresh water allowed the salt water to push in, contaminating what for eons had been a fresh water environment.

"After that, the mangroves came in and pushed out the willows, and their tannic acid killed all the bass. Then the rabbits, deer and bobcats left because their food was gone.

When I first came here I trapped otter and coons. The otter are about all gone now, but one season I caught 47 and the Seminoles came by and accused me of catching them all.

"No, it's not like it used to be, that's for sure. If I wasn't so old, since everything else has left, I'd leave, too. But I guess I'll stay here 'till I die."

Archeological Team Unearths Roman Ruin

WELWYN, England (AP) — A team of amateur archeologists has unearthed a Roman bath house in the path of a new superhighway—and the road builders have hit on a unique scheme to preserve it.

The ruins of what is a kind of early Turkish bath will be encased in a concrete vault with the highway passing overhead.

The preserved bath house, uncovered in a dig near this rural Hertfordshire town, 20 miles north of London, will be open to tourists and scholars while traffic on the highway rumbles above.

The Ministry for the Environment is paying the $48,000 cost of building the vault.

England is littered with the evidence of Roman colonization which began with Caesar's invasion in 55 B.C. and lasted for around 450 years. But many of the ruins are threatened by the encroachment of modern developments like roads and new towns.

Archeologists are hailing the safeguarding of the Welwyn ruins as a preservation breakthrough. The site is also something of a showpiece of what amateur archeologists can accomplish.

The 1,000 square foot bath house was found by the Lock-leys Archeological Society, a group of local enthusiasts who have spent 10 years excavating the site, some of it lying under the playing grounds of a school.

It comprises a changing room, a cold room, a warm room and a hot room, much on the same lines as a present-day Turkish bath. The heat came from a furnace which channeled warm air through ducts.

Nearby are the foundations of two demolished villas and another building.

The amateur archeologists—headed by school teacher Tony Rook and including a bus driver, a public relations consultant and a taxman—are still intrigued by the origins of this complex of buildings.

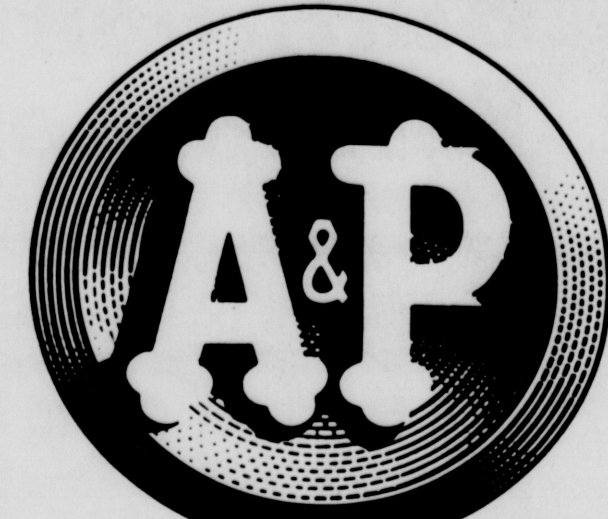

They could have been the property of a wealthy Roman or perhaps a Romanized Briton.

But Rook believes it is possible the buildings and bath house formed part of an administrative bloc.

He said: "It's tempting to believe that this was a center from where the Romans administered the region."

Rook started the Lockleys Archeological Society when he moved into the area 11 years ago.

Black Sash Movement Protests Apartheid

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The 30 lightly clad white women with black mourning sashes stand silently holding placards. It's yet another 24-hour protest on a main Johannesburg street.

Most are young mothers, some middle aged and a few elderly. They stand without warmth or food, their protest symbolizing those who must spend the South African winter without warmth and food.

They belong to the Black Sash, a human and civil rights movement and one of the few organizations left in this country which protests government legislation and its treatment of the nonwhite masses.

The movement is restricted to white women, more than 2,000 of them. They have been opposing the ruling Nationalist party's laws and the effects of its policies for 17 years with scant success.

Black Sash protests in this country, where the voice of public protest has been effectively muted and where demonstrators are regarded as evil, is allowed to continue "only as a front to democracy," says Jean Sinclair, the movement's president.

It began in 1955 when she heard of a plan to load the Senate with a two-thirds majority to ram through legislation.

"That day changed my life," Mrs. Sinclair says. She was then a Johannesburg city councillor and a member of the opposition United party. "I was enraged by the move and from that day I committed myself to fight injustice no matter who it affected, no matter what."

She organized the first protest. Three-thousand white women marched and held a public meeting to condemn the Senate-packing plan.

They formed the Women's Defence of the Constitution League, later shortened to Black Sash by newsmen after the demonstrators began wearing black mourning sashes.

They collected the signatures of more than 100,000 white women and petitioned the governor-general. He signed the bill nevertheless and the act became law. But Black Sash branches began sprouting throughout the country.

Mrs. Sinclair says: "We thought we were going to change the history of South Africa."

They did not, but have become very much a part of its history.

A Handful of Defiance

The small band of protesters stand on a street in Johannesburg, S. Africa. They are members of the Black Sash — so called because of the mourning sash worn — a human and civil rights movement composed of some 2,000 white women. This time the protest is against the detention of a clergyman without immediate charge. Black Sash is one of the few organizations left in S. Africa which protest government legislation and its treatment of the non-white masses. They have been opposing the ruling Nationalist Party's laws and the effects of its apartheid policies for 17 years now, but with scant success. (AP)

"I've been in the Sash from its first day and now it's my life."

When it began she was raising five children. They are all grown now and have scattered except for one daughter, Sheena, who is as involved in Black Sash work as her mother.

Mrs. Sinclair has no time for hobbies or the relaxed social life of most white mothers. She has been president for 10 years, organizing protests, advising thousands of Africans, making speeches and writing articles.

With it has come intimidation, the fear of house arrest and exposure to abuse and insults. It has gained her recognition of the Sash, some satisfaction and fulfillment.

In her 60s, frail, and a chain-smoker, Mrs. Sinclair enjoys sewing and going to the theater "when I get a chance."

Paperback Edition Explains Macumba

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — When you arrive at Rio's Galeao Airport you can get information not only about hotels and restaurants but also about magic spells you can cast to gain love, money, health and prestige.

The secrets all are in a 30-cent paperback at the airport newsstand called "Short Guide to Macumba". Macumba, a combination of Christianity and African spirit worship, is one of the many voodoo-like cults widely practiced in Brazil.

Feeling lonely? Need a girl friend? Just turn to page 15.

"Whoever wants to get a woman's love can employ an enormous number of spells, but first it is necessary to know if the chosen one is married, single or widowed. This is important, because the spirits don't like to break up marriages, principally when the motive is the desire of a third person, who usually doesn't have serious intentions."

Now then, assuming you're serious and you've picked out a nice single girl, one way you can get her to fall for you is to hold a female toad in your left hand and sew its eyes closed with red thread. Then you say:

As long as so-and-so stays far from me, she will have no peace.

When the girl shows up, you may unsew the toad's eyes, the guidebook says.

The book has other spells and incantations for making undesirable acquaintances go away, overcoming impotency, attracting friends, gaining prestige, curing illnesses, making money, and getting rid of bad spells other persons may have cast on you.

Finally, the guide gives some general rules for keeping evil away, so you enjoy your stay in Brazil:

1. Always keep sulphur in your shoe.
2. Carry a St. George medal (St. George represents the powerful Macumba god, Ogum).
3. Wear a Star of David (it represents the power of King Solomon).
4. Pray daily to your guardian angel.

New York State's conservation department says more than 40,000 archers use bows and arrows each year in hunting game.

in all major centers for these Africans.

All blacks are registered in specific areas where they can work and live. They cannot do either unless they have a "reference book" for that area. Last year more than 932,000 Africans were jailed for reference book offenses.

Africans are "endorsed out" of cities to tribal reserves when their reference books expire or when there are irregularities. As a result, families are separated and homes broken. Men are housed in hostels and women and children sent to the reserves.

"Our work is ineffectual," Mrs. Sinclair says. "We try and help these people in the clutches of this cruel legislation, but we have little success. Occasionally we get a lawyer to appeal on a case, but the costs are high, the bureaucracy effective and the chance of success slim."

"We keep on the work and help these poor people understand what is being done to them. The advice bureau is full every day."

Law's Height Problem in Films

NEW YORK (AP) — John Philip Law, who plays Robin Stone in the film version of Jacqueline Susann's best seller, "The Love Machine," stands 6 feet 4, and this sky-scraping height has been a slight problem.

"The photographers always tell me they wish they could turn the wide screen up and down," laughed the blond actor. "When they take closeups of me with a girl, I have to either remove my shoes or stand with my legs apart. I enjoy being tall. When I walk in a crowd, the air seems a little fresher."

Law, who studied engineering before he turned to acting, said he usually reads technical books and not many novels, but when he got the part, he read "The Love Machine" from "A-to-Z."

"I enjoyed it, and got a kick out of it. It gives an insight into the television industry," he said.

"Playing Robin Stone is a big step for me. Everyone wanted the part. It's a choice part. I was a soldier in 'The Russians are Coming,' and a farmer in 'Hurry Sundown.' It seems I'm always playing soldiers or farmers. This is the first time I played a straight executive type. It's a new image for me."

How did he regard the character of Stone—the go-getter newsman who becomes president of a network?

"To me, Stone is a fighter. A corporation man. The story is about the price a man has to pay to become successful in a cut-throat business. Stone became an insensitive man."

He cannot really fall in love. He cannot really fall in love. Since I was to play Stone, I had to justify his character to an extent. I said to myself, 'Stone's doing all those cruel things for the best of his network. He is a corporation man'."

Jacqueline Susann approves his casting as Stone, he said. "At first, they weren't sure. They thought I was young. But then, a lot of guys in the industry are very young. There is a 26-year-old man running a record company and some executives in television are around 30." Law is 33.

Law was born in Hollywood, the son of a one-time deputy sheriff of West Hollywood and an actress.

His motion picture debut was in the 1950 production of "The Magnificent Yankee" as a page boy, but he wasn't interested in acting then, and continued studying engineering.
